Scripture says, "I will give you shepherds after my own heart, who will lead you with knowledge and understanding" (Jeremiah 3:15). Most of Israel's pastoral imagery is grounded in two traditions: Moses as God's under-shepherd and David as shepherd-king.

Shepherds After My Own Heart: Pastoral Traditions and ...

First and foremost, we must be shepherds after God's own heart. The phrase translated as "after my heart" in Jeremiah 3:15 means, literally, "like my heart" (kelibbi). If we want to lead people in God's ways, then our hearts, which include our thinking and choosing, not just our emotions, must be like God's own heart.

Shepherds After God's Own Heart | Daily Reflection | The ...

Let me say right off the bat, then, what's remarkable about Shepherds After My Own Heart is that it demonstrates how important the shepherding metaphor is in the Bible. I don't think I'm overstating the matter by suggesting that it's one of the main characters in the Bible's storyline, or a girder beam that helps hold it all together.
